

Riding for the kingdom

Whoever heard of a Christian riding business which teaches horsemanship from a biblical perspective? Well so successful is the one that Suzanne Pillans runs that it is supporting her as she steps into full time ministry. Louise Gunn heard her story

Like many a non Christian, Suzanne Pillans turned to the Lord in her time of need. A riding instructor based in South Africa, she had an accident in which her horse was so badly injured, it would have to be destroyed. She cried out to God, saying that if He would heal her horse of a broken shoulder she would "know that He is alive and that He really is God." On that basis, she promised that she would turn to Him and serve Him for the rest of her life. To her astonishment, the horse's broken shoulder was healed and the animal has carried children for the last 12 years without a day's lameness.
